

ABSTRACT

The present application describes a large circular target-specific antisense molecule that is effective in ablating RNA and protein expression. The large circular
 5 antisense molecule is used to treat any human disease in which modulation of gene expression can be beneficial to intervene in the disease initiation and progression.

20061028 012002